We're ahead of what we usually are in payments, so will have clearer picture by end of Nov. Comparison to budget: still in good shape, but some of the line items are still being sorted through from Feast. Rough estimate of $100k more in expenses, so will be close to a break-even this year.
 - Budget & Finance committee met and reviewed finances and proposed budget, agreed budget needs to increase 10-15% across the board due to inflation, also use 5-yr average on Feast. Meeting again on Nov. 28, proposing budget at Dec. 13 meeting. Clarification on break-even after $50k moved- yes.

 - Membership renewals just went out, so too early to discuss numbers.
- Collections Committee – Kelly Lippie
 - Met with Purdue Honors faculty to discuss spring projects, focus on diversity in community.
 - 2 ledgers taken to book binder in April are finally completed. With funds from TIPCOA, given pre-pandemic. Still funds left, so might be able to get more done. Julie: work looks really good. Nick: who was used? Walker bookbinding in Indianapolis. Will send contact info to Nick.

 - OP: Kory: discussed adding TCHA parcels to preserve at last meeting. Considering offering tour to view in person in spring for board. CREP payment info provided at meeting. Letter sent to IU collections manager regarding archaeological material, will follow up via email: conversation requested. Checked in with Colby about overlook (left open during Feast), mostly OK but someone stole traffic cone.

- Facilities: Pete: roof report (full report in agenda and minutes). Explanation of new roof, explanation of extra charges.
 - Recommendation: pay original not-to-exceed amount, and then pay $4,500 from restricted History Center fund to cover some of the actual amount. Julie: what are roofer's feelings on overage? Pete: he took responsibility for it. Leslie: with 3 leaks, 2 happened on weekend and he was extremely responsive. However, was lacking on communication about overage. Del: why weren't the scuppers realized earlier and factored into quote? Pete: wasn't talked about or quoted. Discussion of damage to History Center.

Battlefield Museum Report
Trey Gorden
December 2022

- Visitor numbers were a little disappointing for November.
- Visitor numbers for December were as expected.
- Museum closing for the holidays and for inventory.

October 21st through November 20th, we had 888 visitors. This is a significant drop-off of 391 people from last month's total of 1279. The total visitors for the same period last year was 962.

The drop in attendance could be at least partially accounted for by the disappointing turnout for Commemoration. As expected, the weather was terrible -- and we were competing with a Purdue home game -- so we just didn't draw much of a crowd. Unfortunately, no other time slot was available when everyone we needed could come. Even so, the stormy weather kept one of our speakers from being able to make it.

This is the time of year when things really start to slow down. Our attendance for November/December this year – 160 visitors – is almost exactly the same as this period last year – 163 visitors.

As always, the museum will be closing from December 21st through January 14th. This will give staff the holidays off and, when we return, allow us to do our yearly deep cleaning and inventory evaluation.

Merry Christmas and happy New Year!

Feast Report
Leslie Martin Conwell
December 2022

- All profit-sharing checks for food booths will be sent out by the end of the year.
- Most other Feast expenses have been paid.
- We have purchased a new 20' flatbed trailer for Feast grounds usage, thanks to the $6900.00 NCHS grant. Thank you to Jeff Burnworth and Jeff Schwab for going with me to purchase the trailer.
- The Feast Volunteer Thank You party was held December 1, and we had very heavy turnout for the event. A special thank you to Teays River Brewing and Public House for donating BBQ pork, brisket, and baked beans.
- The Feast committee will reconvene in January to begin planning for the 2023 Feast. Topics will include ticket pricing to better reflect the current economic conditions.

A note I received from Diane Hunter, Historic Tribal Preservation Officer for the Miami Tribe of Oklahoma. This is part of the official Feast event report she submitted to the tribe:
“For the first time ever, the Miami Tribe participated in the 55th year of the Feast of the Hunters’ Moon. The plan was for a group of six Myaamiaki (Miami people) to build a small village of wiikiaama (houses), using saplings for the frames and sewing cattails for the walls. Unfortunately, half the crew was either sick or exposed to Covid just before the event. Still, Logan York and Diane Hunter were there all three days, and Greta Sirois was able to come one day. Although the wiikiaami-building did not work well with so few people, the days were a wonderful opportunity to share about the Miami Tribe. They did not talk to all 46,000 people who came to the event over the three days, but they insist they talked to thousands of people, certainly more than they had talked to during the rest of the year. They met the French Consul Generale Yannick Tagand and Martin Baier, the representative of the French government in Indianapolis. The weekend proved to be an excellent opportunity to share about the history of Miami people and the Miami Tribe today, and they are looking forward to going back next year, hopefully with more healthy Myaamiaki to help.”
